

Justice has remained elusive in my case until April of 2013, when the false accuser was served with a lawsuit accusing her of defamation, making false reports and invasion of property. Against the encouragement of those that urged me to move on from this incident, an ordeal that continues to affect my life, I chose to seek the truth. The Court ruled in favor of the plaintiff and with the maximum judgment lien possible. This was a bittersweet victory and one that most importantly speaks to the accuser's integrity and credibility. The defendant is no longer anonymous, as the sole witness, her testimony's truthfulness has been smashed. However, since the beginning, there wasn't any evidence of truthfulness provided by her. To those who call insignificance to this victory I say to you, try having been in my shoes for the past year where the hopes and dreams of my family were abruptly crushed on the sole testimony of an accuser with a history of making salacious claims.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating!

Far too many misguided participants in this society choose to bear false witness against the innocent with evil intent to ruin lives and careers. Empirical evidence has shown that such individuals and groups who choose to go the route of hating others lack a moral compass and backbone. What does this ruling suggest to the credibility of one such participant, that when called upon by the Court to defend herself, chose to remain elusive and unresponsive? What about those persons that willingly aligned themselves with such absolute ridiculousness even though faced with common sense, fact and reason? I urge them to examine themselves, stop such behavior and take responsibility for their actions. Entire lives and families have been destroyed. It's time PSU redress and repair the harm done to myself and my family. This case is not over, not by a longshot. Accountability and justice remain elusive.

The buck does not stop here. I continue to seek responsibility from those parties that smeared my good name and deprived me of a promising career in law. The Courts' opinions and decisions must be followed through with further options to reclaim my name as well as and those near/dear to my heart.

Notwithstanding, multiple parties and their lives have been trashed. We must stand against the face of discrimination and take appropriate steps to lobby the Oregon legislature to review PSU's non-judicial disciplinary and hearing policies that bear no regard over State and Federal statutes. Public institutions in the state of Oregon need take a good introspective review of themselves and reform their processes to conform with the Constitution of the United States such that every member, student and staff are entitled to equal and unalienable rights including, among others, the right to free speech and due process regardless race, gender or creed.

In parting, I leave you all with words from one far wiser than I. Martin Luther King, Jr., leader of the civil rights movement in the United States of America, once famously said, " Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere." He also said, "A lie cannot live." You don't have to take my word for it. You have the choice to remain silent. You have the choice to make up your own mind. The truth we all seek is not as elusive as it seems.

Sincerely,

Henry Liu
